Installing RoadHat 2.0 if you have Windows 7

Windows 7 has more restrictive C drive settings than previous Windows versions, which causes problems when RoadHat tries to write to the C drive. You can edit the settings by doing the following:

Find the C drive folder where RoadHat 2 is installed
Right click on the drive folder and select properties
Under the Security tab, select Users (or whichever group you are under)
In the top box click Edit
Select Users again
In the bottom box check Full Control
Select Apply
Select OK